

Russian Patriarch extends condolences over US shooting deaths

The Patriarch of Moscow and All Russia, His Holiness Kirill, has offered his condolences to US President Donald Trump following a recent series of shooting incidents in which dozens were killed or injured.

“In these difficult times for the American people, we are extending our condolences to all who are grieving today. I hope that everything possible will be done from now on to prevent a repeat of such tragedies,” Patriarch Kirill said in his message to Trump.