

Feast of the Patriarchal Department of Ecumenical Relations and Development

With the blessing of His Beatitude Patriarch John X and in the presence of Rev. Bishops Romanos (Al-Hannat) the Patriarchal Vicar, Moussa (Al-Khoury), and John (Batash), the Patriarchal Department of Ecumenical Relations and Development celebrated the Sunday of the Good Samaritan, its patron's feast, which coincided with its thirtieth anniversary. On this occasion, His Grace Bishop Romanos (Al-Hannat) delivered a speech where he initially conveyed His Beatitude's blessing and wishes for the department to prosper. He stressed the important role of the Patriarchal Department in the circumstances of our country and how this ministry finds its foundation in the Gospel, following the example of the Good Samaritan.

His Grace concluded the speech with a prayer for all its volunteers to succeed in spreading the Church's humanitarian message in the most beautiful way.
