Fr. Peter Spiro Meets with Senior Seminarians at Archdiocese Headquarters to Address Human Trafficking

Fr. Peter Spiro, Director of the FREEDOM Ministry, met with senior seminarians from Holy Cross School of Theology at the Archdiocese headquarters in New York for an important discussion on the harsh realities of Human Trafficking.

As these future ministry leaders prepare to graduate and step into their vocations, Fr. Peter offered a compelling presentation on the vulnerabilities and systemic issues that contribute to trafficking. He emphasized the vital role of clergy in recognizing, preventing, and responding to trafficking in their communities.

In addition to his insights, Fr. Peter provided a range of practical tools and resources to help the seminarians integrate anti-trafficking advocacy into their ministries moving forward.

This impactful session underscores the seminary and Archdiocese's shared commitment to equipping future clergy to serve with compassion, awareness, and courage.
