

Traces of Greece - Religious, Pilgrimage and Cultural Tourism

For the first time ever in Greece, highly acclaimed Professors of the country's oldest and highest internationally ranked university, officially bestow their expertise and guide academics and culturally desirous travelers through the events and actual sites that laid the foundations of Western Civilization and Christianity.

Traces of Greece is the brainchild of the collaboration between the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA), the first university in the Balkans and the Eastern Mediterranean area, and one of the country's oldest travel organizations, Argo Travel.

249 years of combined academic and professional experience ensure that our guests, whether they seek to expand their academic knowledge or to leisurely explore Greece and its long history, will be educated and hosted to the highest possible level.

About Traces of Greece

Mission

To offer a unique opportunity to academics – faculty members, researchers and students – and culturally desirous individuals to experience five millennia of Greek cultural and religious heritage through accredited short courses and leisure travel.

Vision

To host and educate at the highest level, to disseminate Greek values and heritage, and in doing so to propagate Greece's new message to the world.
