

Metropolitan of Volokolamsk on Russian Church's electronic, social media

The Metropolitan of Volokolamsk, His Eminence Hilarion, referred to the Russian Orthodox Church's presence in electronic and social media, as well as to efforts to attract more young people to Church services and religion.

In a radio interview, Hilarion, who is also the chairman of the department of external Church relations, emphasized that the most effective way to reach out to the younger generations is via communication in the media they use.