Feature on Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew posted on Romanian news site

An interview and feature focusing on the Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople, His All Holiness Bartholomew I, was posted on a Romanian news site this week.

The article showcases the Ecumenical Patriarchate and its historic role over the centuries, while being particularly laudatory of the Patriarch for his environmental advocacy.

In the interview, His All Holiness details about how Orthodox Christianity is perceived in predominately Muslim Turkey, where the venerable Patriarchate is located, as well as its ties to Romania and the overall situation in the Orthodox Church today.

Bartolomeu I, Patriarhul Constantinopolului „Biserica trebuie să încurajeze libertatea, nu dominația”
