

Skete of Saint Panteleimon (Koutloumousiou)

The Skete of Saint Panteleimon, not to be confused with the monastery of the same name, some kilometres away, is a skete of the Koutloumousiou monastery in Mount Athos Greece.

The Skete was founded in 1785 by the monk Charalampos near the town of Karies, and is a dependent of the Koutloumousiou monastery.

The distinctive feature of the skete is the fact that the icon of Saint Panteleimon from the main church (kiriakon) resembles a lot on how the saint was in reality.

Also, in the outer corner of the church is the corner in which Saint Paisios stood during the services.

View more photos HERE

— Source: asceticexperience.com