Archbishop Elpidophoros Designates National Philoptochos Society Sunday

CHICAGO - During the Seventeenth National Philoptochos Children's Medical Fund Luncheon held Saturday, Nov. 16, 2019, His Eminence Archbishop Elpidophoros of America, designated the Sunday of the Good Samaritan each year (which is the 8th Sunday of Luke according to the Kanonion) as National Philoptochos Society Sunday.

The Archbishop addressed the gathering and praised the work and the value of Philoptochos and each one of its members, stating:

Nothing you do is small or insignificant. Each fashion show, each festival of tables, each coffee hour that you host, has great value. Each member of Philoptochos has great value. This is because you work together, in every parish, in every Metropolis, and across our Archdiocese. You are an "army of αγάπη" that conquers pain and anguish through generosity and kindness. You are a model of cooperation and collaboration for our Church. You prove that, "Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much." (see Full Text)
