

Church of Russia round-table discussion on efforts to prevent AIDS

Elsewhere, a round-table discussion focusing on the Russian Orthodox Church's participation in efforts to prevent and combat the AIDS virus will be held in the coming days at the Moscow Patriarchate's department for external church relations (DECR).

The meeting will be attended by representatives of the federal state, public agencies, clerics and ecclesiastical social workers, along with representatives of other religious communities.