‘The Opposite of Peace Is Not War, but Egocentrism’

The Albanian President, Ilir Meta visited on Saturday two new premises in the Orthodox Cathedral ‘Resurrection of Christ’ in Tirana, the baptismal hall and that of the youth education and socialization.

According to him, educating the younger generation with the sacred teachings of peace, love, and life, not only touch the hearts and minds of believers within the walls of the church, but are actual messages, especially to our children and young people, to keep them away from “diseases of modern times” such as drugs, gambling, alcohol and selfishness.

“His Beatitude, Anastas Janullatos, rightly proclaims: The opposite of peace is not war, but egocentrism.”

Special gratitude and thanks to the Autocephalous Orthodox Church for its special contributions and dedication to discouraging the phenomenon of depopulation of the country, emphasizing the importance of raising hope and promoting our best national values, to our children and young people,” said Meta.
