Archbishop of Athens & All Greece Ieronymos on measures against coronavirus

Archbishop Ieronymos on Friday again referred to the coronavirus crisis and the strict measures taken to prevent a mass outbreak.

In a statement to Greece's state-run news agency, the Primate of the Church of Greece noted that "… Our Church embraces all; it loves all and prays for all. The Church does not retain a faith-meter, nor do our clerics take absences at our Holy Cathedrals. Christian Orthodox believers live and are active with a spirit of personal liberty, while at the same time maintaining an advanced sense of personal and national responsibility. "
