Measures on Cyprus due to coronavirus

Cyprus President Nicos Anastasiades also announced stricter measures for the east Mediterranean island republic, including a ban on people in places of religious worship. The measure extends to April 13.

In a related development, the Holy Metropolis of Limassol announced that the Vespers service for Wednesday's Feast Day of the Annunciation will be celebrated in all cathedrals at 4 p.m. local time, with the presence of worshippers. However, the evening Divine Liturgy will be celebrated without the presence of worshippers.
