Bishop Nikoloz says the Church will announce its decision of Easter liturgy after Holy Thursday

The fact that the authorities will be watching the Easter liturgy on TV is a wrong statement, because there are people in the government who will come and attend the liturgy in the church, – Metropolitan of Akhalkalaki and Kumurdo, Bishop Nikoloz (Pachuashvili) told reporters.

He said the church's decision on how to hold the Easter liturgy would be announced after Holy Thursday.

"There is nothing to talk about or discuss, it's a quick decision that will probably be made after Holy Thursday.

The fact that the authorities will be watching the Easter liturgy on TV is a wrong statement, because there are people in the government who will come and attend the liturgy in the church, but there are people who have never attended the Easter service and don't care about it. As for what we recommend, our recommendations and decisions will be announced after Holy Thursday," said Bishop Nikoloz.
