

Memorial service for Georgian soldiers who fell during WWII

A trisagion service was held on Saturday at the memorial to the Unknown Soldier in the Georgian capital of Tbilisi, in remembrance of the roughly 300,000 Georgians who fought and died in World War II on the side of the Red Army.

Saturday marked the 75th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe.

Low-key events were held for this year's anniversary due to measures in place against the pandemic.
