

Feast Day of St. Andreas the Hermit

The Church and the faithful in the western Greece coastal town of Amphilochia today commemorate the feast day of St. Andreas the Hermit.

A cave where the 13th century hermit lived for three decades, focusing on prayer and solitude, and near a lake next to the village of Halkiopoulos, is today a pilgrimage site.

