Sts. Constantine & Helen feast day Divine Liturgy without worshipers in Cairo

The much-anticipated con-celebratory Divine Liturgy at the Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Cathedral in Cairo, on the feast day of the Next-to-the Apostles Constantine and Helen, was held without the presence of worshipers this week due to coronavirus-related restrictions in place.

The Divine Liturgy for the specific feast day – which was officiated by the Patriarch of Alexandria and All Africa, His Divine Beatitude Theodoros II – was the first since the iconic cathedral was fully restored and rededicated last September.
