Greek PM visits Church of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem on Tues.

Greek Prime Minister Kyriakos Mitsotakis arrived in Israel on Tuesday morning for an official visit, heading up a Greek government delegation that includes six ministers and two deputies ministers. Mitsotakis will visit the Church of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem in the afternoon, where he will be received by the Patriarch of Jerusalem, His Most Godly Beatitude Theophilos III.

As previously reported, the visit aims to boost the strategic nature of Greek-Israeli relations, with talks to revolve around cooperation in the sectors of defense, cyber-security, agri-business and energy.
