

2nd annual Greek language educational con'f in US to be held online

The Archdiocese of America this week announced that in light of on-going developments with the COVID-19 pandemic and after thoughtful discussions, members of the High Council on Greek education decided to transform the 2nd annual educational conference into a fully online, virtual experience, and scheduled for Saturday, November 7.

The conference aims to explore various educational topics surrounding the teaching of the Greek language abroad. The program includes 15 webinars that will be delivered throughout the day.