

Archdiocese of Australia to restore Cathedral of the Annunciation of Our Lady in Redfern

The Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of Australia this week announced that it was planning to restore the Cathedral of the Annunciation of Our Lady and build a new seminary and museum.

The Cathedral has been located in the suburb of Redfern since 1848. It was an Anglican church for its first century, before being re-consecrated to the Orthodox faith in 1970.