

Russian Church official: A cleric entering social media must have a sole purpose, to bring a user to the Church

The Patriarchate of Moscow's deputy chairman for Church Relations with Society and Mass Media, Aleksandr Schipkov, this week referred to the use of social media by clerics.

Schipkov noted that if a cleric chooses to enter and engage in a social media format, he must do so only with one purpose, namely, to bring a user to the Church, to a real parish.
