24/02/2019

Greek hagiographers paint churches in Colorado

A group of Greek hagiographers are in the United States, and specifically in Loveland, Colorado, to paint the interior of local cathedrals.

Local resident Katy Vicory, as specialist in Orthodox hagiography, and a parishioner of the St. Spyridon Orthodox Church in northern Colorado, emphasized that the depictions of the life of Christ, Orthodox saints and scenes from the Gospel inside the Churches help bring parishioners closer to the faith.