Private screening of film ‘Man of God’ for Vladimir Putin, Prince Charles

The award-winning film “Man of God” was shown during a private screening for Russian President Vladimir Putin and Prince Charles. Afterwards, both men wholeheartedly recommended to their associates that they also enjoy the film, which is based on the life and works of St. Nektarios of Aegina.

The international production by director Yelena Popovic has set summer ticket records in Greece, where it debuted in late August. The film will premiere in Serbia and Russia next month.
