Man of God’ sets box office records in Greece

The film “Man of God” has exceeded ticket sales of more than 225,000 in Greece since its premiere on Aug. 26, setting box office records in the country.

The film, by director Yelena Popovic, recounts the life and works of early 20th century St. Nektarios of Aegina.

Popovic this week was quoted on the Greek public broadcaster’s webpage about her decision to cast Greek actor Aris Servetalis in the lead role of St. Nektarios.
