Exhibition the 17th century Greek hieromonks Leichoudes, enlighteners of Russia, opens in Moscow

An exhibition focusing on the 17th century Greek hieromonks Ioannikios and Sophronios Leichoudes, enlighteners of Russia, opened in Moscow on Thursday, co-organized by the Russian State Library and the Greek embassy in the Russian capital.
The event is part of the Russia-Greece Year of History.

The two brothers established the Slavo-Greko-Latin Academy in Moscow in 1685, credited by historians for spreading Greek learning to Russia.
