Latest provocation by Albanian authorities against Serbian interests in Kosovo & Metohija

The latest provocation by Kosovo Albanians in the Kosovo & Metohija province against the remaining Serbian Orthodox community came this week, as the former prevented Petar Petković, the Republic of Serbia's director of Kosovo and Metohija office, and his associates, from travelling to the historic Decani Monastery for festal services on the occasion of the feast day of Right-believing Stephen Uros of Decani, the saint for whom the monastery is dedicated.

The Bishop of Razka and Prizren, His Grace Theodosije, officiated at the Divine Liturgy on Wednesday at the monastery, while the Archimandrite Savva spoke on the venerable and pious king of the Serbs, who was later canonized by the Serbian Orthodox Church.
