

Archbishop of America Elpidophoros issues homily on Greek letters, education

The Archbishop of America, His Eminence Elpidophoros, addressed a homily at a Divine Liturgy for Greek Letters on Monday, on the occasion of the feast day of the Three Hierarchs.

Among others, His Eminence noted that “...over 1,600 years ago, these three great Fathers of the Church – the very best and brightest of their day – made lasting contributions to how we talk and how we understand God, which we still use today... Together, they are the best examples of what it means to combine faith and science – something you should never be afraid to do.”
