Digital recreation of pre-1453 Constantinople

Spectacular image were presented this week on how Constantinople looked before it fell to the Ottomans in 1453.

The digital images were presented by a Turkish mass media outlet.

The Imperial city's grandeur comes to life, with the most prominent example being the Hagia Sophia Cathedral.

The 1,000-year Eastern Roman empire, later referred to as the Byzantine civilization, came to an end on May 29, 1453 after a nearly two-month siege, with the last Byzantine Emperor, Constantine Paleologos, falling in defense of the city.

in age not foliogadje mlojipli	innaktreonicytyle innaktreonicyty	te innautreowicztyte innautreowiczty	te innatureowiczącte innatureowicząc	imaktreomojyte imaktreomojyte unktroovtrynpe unkr
mage not followed embytell	imalbeoriogy) imalbeoriogy	inalpeowidth; inalpeowidth	imalbeovious imalbeovious	ite imadigeonioyigie imadigeonioyigie uindirooviryipe unkr

