Same pandemic-related restrictions apply to Church-going in Greece during Holy & Great Easter Week

Church-goers in Greece will be able to enter places of worship and prayer for Holy Easter Week with a Covid-19 vaccination certification, a certificate of previous infection, or, a negative PCR or rapid test conducted within 48 hours. Only a negative self-test result is required of minors.

Worshippers must also wear face masks, according to a revision of pandemic-related restrictions, announced by the Greek government on Monday — restrictions that will apply until May 1.
