Metropolitan of Corinth: We Greeks have always put God, motherland and family in the same high pedestal

An interview by the Metropolitan of Corinth, His Eminence Dionysios, to the Orthodoxia news agency is now posted on the latter's websites.

Dionysios refers to the Church's mission, in general, and to legacy of the Apostle Paul, whose First and Second Epistles to the Corinthians are prominent in the New Testament.

In reference to contemporary developments in Greece, His Eminence Dionysios decried the fact, as he said, that the Church is being targeted today by anti-ecclesiastical propaganda.

"We Greeks have always put God, the motherland and family in the same high pedestal," he said.
