Archbishop of Athens & All Greece Ieronymos again tests positive for Covid-19

The Archbishop of Athens and All Greece, His Beatitude Ieronymos, this week again tested positive for the Covid-19 virus. His Beatitude had tested positive for Covid-19 in November 2020.

According to announcement by the Archdiocese of Athens on Thursday afternoon, the Primate of the Autocephalous Orthodox Church of Greece remains at Archdiocese's official parsonage and is being treated by his personal physician, although no symptoms have emerged.

His Beatitude Ieronymos has received all three recommended vaccinations for the virus.
