

14/11/2022

Condolences by Russian Patriarch Kirill over bombing in Constantinople

International political and religious leaders sent condolences on Monday to Turkish leadership, in the wake of Sunday's bomb explosion in one of the most prominent outdoor areas of Constantinople, an attack that left six dead and dozens wounded. In his message, the Patriarch of Moscow and All Russia, His Holiness Kirill, expressed deep sadness, as he said, conveying his condolences to the families of the victims and those injured.