

Orthodoxy the prevalent faith in Estonia

According to a 2021 census undertaken in the Baltic republic of Estonia, 29 percent of respondents said they are affiliated with a religion, with the most prevalent faith in the country being Orthodoxy.

The second most prevalent faith is Protestant Lutheranism.

Orthodox Christians make up 16 percent and Lutherans 8 percent of the population in Estonia. People with other religious affiliations account for 5 percent of the population.