The custom of the little crosses that are given to the young students of the Zappeion School of Constantinople

At the Great Community of Stavrodromi, in Constantinople, the traditional custom was revived after three years of restrictions due to the pandemic in the Holy Church of the Holy Trinity of the Cross, with the ancestral custom of the small crosses that are given to the small students of the primary school upon their entry into the 1st grade.

However, as this celebration had been postponed for two consecutive years, little crosses were received from the hands of the Hierarchical Proistamenos, His Eminence Metropolitan Andreas of Saranta Ekklesies, by the students of both Zappeion classes who had missed this opportunity in previous years.

The members of the Community wish good progress to the young students and that the cross guards the future of the Community in the City of Constantinople.
