

3rd International Halki Conference on Theology and Ecology begins on Friday

The Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople, His All Holiness Bartholomew I, convenes the 3rd International Halki Conference on Theology and Ecology, which takes place from May 31 to June 4.

The conference will bring together some 50 distinguished theologians and specialists from 40 seminaries and institutes from all around the world, with talks focusing on theological education and ecological awareness.

The international conference is considered as a scientific roundtable, where participants will hear addresses and presentations by noted environmental theologians, as well as discussing ways in which environmental awareness can be promoted by Orthodox seminaries and higher education institutions.
