Romanian Kickboxer Cătălin Moroșanu visits Mount Athos: I came to thank God for everything He gave me

Romanian Kickboxer and former professional rugby player Cătălin Moroșanu announced on his Facebook page that he visited the Holy Mount Athos to thank God for His divine help.

‘I came to thank God for everything He gave me, because He enlightened my path every time, helping me to move on,’ Moroșanu wrote on Monday.

‘I’ve spent some blessed days at the monasteries on Mount Athos with a routine of prayer and spiritual fortification. A spiritual nourishment that I cannot describe in words. God help!’

In an additional post during his stay on Mount Athos, the Romanian sportsman said that his previous visit happened four years ago.

‘I greet you, my friends! Be kind to one another! It is all that’s left behind,’ Cătălin Moroșanu urged his Facebook fans.
