

Photo submission deadline extended for Colours of Orthodoxy contest dedicated to Greece

The photo submission deadline for the “Colours of Orthodoxy” contest has been extended until July 31. This year’s edition of the contest is dedicated to Greece.

The competition is open to all professional and amateur photographers from around the world. Participation in the competition is free. Organisers reserve the right to extend the duration of the competition.

One can submit photos for the following categories: Places, Reportage, People, and Details. Participants are welcome to submit up to six photographs per category.

The contest will be judged by an international panel of experts – among them, Aurelian Iftimiu, Patriarchal adviser to Patriarch Daniel of Romania and the head of the Basilica News Agency of the Romanian Patriarchate.

Participants can submit photos via email to [\[email protected\]](#), accompanied by the following participation form.

The project “Colours of Orthodoxy” is dedicated each year to a different country: up to now, Albania, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Finland, Georgia, Poland, Russia, Romania, Serbia and the Holy Land. Each edition culminates with a photo exhibition and the publication of a photo album. Many exhibitions were presented in 16 countries around the world.
